
Wow!! Our first piece of trash posting.

Posted by Treeman - 10/13/2003 05:58pm

Here's our first piece of trash posting. Not a bad track record with our new message board. We can have this bloke blocked because his e-mail address is required to sign up. What do you think tree climbing community. Block him out or let him be?

=====

Posted by NickfromWI - 10/13/2003 06:38pm

I say don't block him. Maybe he is interested in learning from us. However, this post should be deleted...or better yet, there could be a "Gear Exchange" forum. It would have to be made known that each user is responsible if they got bad gear from here. TCI would not be responsible.

I sure hope that posts like this are not a recurring thing.

love
nick

=====

I'd say block him...

Posted by arbolito - 10/13/2003 08:45pm

...it appears from his message that he's not interested in learning from the forum - he just signed up and posted an advertisement. If he really is interested, he can sign up with a different e-mail address - they're easy to come by...

It's a great forum - I for one enjoy its lack of spam!

=====

Posted by NickfromWI - 10/13/2003 08:57pm

How 'bout put him on probation. See if he continues with worthless posts. If so, ban him. If not, then no harm done, right?

love
nick

ps- who said it's a he, and not a she?:o

=====

50 dollar north face jacket is only part of the bargain

Posted by redpanda - 10/14/2003 06:48am

I promise you'll never feel regret!! I promise!!

before you guys are so quick to knock this guys posting as trash, you should look more carefully. In addition to the fabulous deal on the garment, you also can get a lifetime of no regrets. Just think about it, no regrets anymore. Isn't that worth 50 dollars?

=====