We got a hank of this rope to try from Petzl. The rope is quite stiff. I was not able to tie a blake's in it. I did a couple of SRT climbs, but was unable to get my Petzl Stop to hold without sliding. I'm not sure if this is related to a waxy coating on the rope as it is new, or the design of the rope.

Sorry, after I re-read the post, I'm not sure I was talking about the same rope.

What is the big deal if it DOES milk. This usually only happens on those first few descents...then it is a non-issue.

I will put up with the milking if the tree excels in all other aspects!
