
Boston Globe on tree climbing

Posted by moss - 08/13/2006 12:44am

Today's Globe has an article on tree climbing. We had the Globe photographer up in a beautiful beech for a group climb in June. He said it wasn't as bad as when he was on assignment in Colombia to photograph drug warlords and cocaine labs in the rain forest. I think he had a bit more fun climbing with us.

My friend Nancy is in the treeboat in the photo, she made her first climb that day. Her comments were something like "can I go higher?" and later, "when can I climb again?"

Rec climbing article

Nancy kicks back in the 'boat

http://cache.boston.com/bonzai-fba/Globe_Photo/2006/08/11/1155310675_3410.jpg

Moss guiding Nancy up to the 'boat

http://cache.boston.com/bonzai-fba/Globe_Photo/2006/08/11/1155310721_9936.jpg

=====

Excellent!

Posted by BeechBum - 08/13/2006 10:40am

Congrats on making the paper Moss, that is a fantastic article!!

Woody

=====

Posted by Ponderosa - 08/13/2006 11:25am

Moss, great articles and great pictures.

=====