
Calling all Australians'

Posted by aussietreeclimber - 05/08/2007 06:35am

Hey Guys,

Finally got some time to read up on the postings. Since around 2005 when "Ziontree" and "bennysheehan" informed us of their Queensland residence I was wondering if any other Australian climbers had joined the message board (such as myself)

I live in NSW about an hour from Sydney city in a little suburb, Galston.

One other question, Do TCI have any connections to classes or such here?

Have you posted in the Tree World web site?

<http://www.treeworld.info/>

This is a new site operated by Eric Frey (Ekka) in NSW. The site is a great source of info and connections for all the professionals, amateurs, recreational climbers and even homeowners can ask questions there. The site is free to join and his information is timely, clean, friendly and very educational. Nice climbing and safety videos too! Great location for all climbers.

Thanks for the info. Seems like a good site.

Hi Aussie

re TCI stuff- in 06 I did all of Tengu's classes in Oregon. I am currently very close to facilitating guided climbs here in Brisbane. Having delays with permission to use land.

Starting a site/blog for rec climbing is Aus its treeclimbers.com.au still under construction.

One of my aims is to have a climber finder type forum for Aussie climbers.

I know of a few other QLD rec climbers that don't post.

One work mate said "rec climbing? is that thing you do where you're not getting paid?"

Cheers

hey hey !

i'm looking to learn tree climbing in North QLD, australia..

it doesn't seem to exist up this way, but maybe i haven't found that special group of people just yet.

am i better of just doing an arborist type course @ TAFE ?

Caldera, Welcome to the site

Get in touch with Erik (EKKA) at TreeWorld.com in Brisbane and he can point you some directions to get some proper training. Their site is mostly targeted to Arborist work but they can point you in the right direction in your area. B)

thanks 'oldtimer-youngheart'

I've made contact with a crew in brizzy, and they've just given me a lead up north .. lets hope this equates to me learning how to climb trees soon enough.

I know there are heaps of people into tree climbing down south, especially in the activist circles...
