
Treeman on 11Alive News

Posted by dcs154 - 01/16/2008 12:55am

I enjoyed a pleasant surprise tonight while watching the 11 o'clock news on NBC in Atlanta. Treeman, aka Peter Jenkins, was featured in a report. Atlanta is preparing for some possible winter weather, and Treeman talked about the threat that ice can pose to trees. It was great to see him on TV. Looked like the report was filmed at his house; wonder if he was climbing Thrasher.

You can read and/or watch the "Keep An Eye On Trees That May Fall" report on 11Alive's website:
http://www.11alive.com/news/article_news.aspx?storyid=109618

Re:Treeman on 11-Alive News

Posted by oldtimer - 01/16/2008 10:07am

Thanks dcs154 for providing this link to this information. It was informative and timely for the local residents in view of the impending ice storm forecasted in the near future for the Atlanta area and for the region in general. You can actually leave a note for the reporter to thank them for putting this information together.B)

Re:Treeman on 11-Alive News

Posted by Electrojake - 01/16/2008 07:11pm

Very nice indeed Mr. Treeman. And thank you dcs for posting that link!
It was nice to hear the Ol' Masters's voice. It's been a while.
-Electrojake-
